Dublin, Ohio, January 19, 2023: Verdantas, a private-equity-backed provider of engineering, planning, science, and technical services to clients on environmental and sustainable infrastructure solutions, announced today that Chris Rutledge would assume the role of Practice Group Director. The Verdantas Practice Groups help to drive the company's organic growth and overall company technical development success.

Verdantas' practices are the heart and soul of our company. They are communities where our technical practitioners come together to support one another, collaborate to find solutions to emerging issues and chronic challenges to the environment and our planet, and celebrate our client's successes. I'm excited to work with the diverse talent within our Verdantas communities to accomplish amazing things, said Chris Rutledge, Practice Group Director of Verdantas.

Chris' impact on our practice group teams will be immediate as we build on a foundation of cross-capabilities engagement to bring our clients enhanced solutions across their project's lifecycle, remarked Andra Kidd, Chief Growth and Strategy Officer of Verdantas
